INTRODUCTION

During this course, participants will learn...

- The biblical foundation for a commitment to Life.
- What abortion is and how it affects various people, especially women who feel forced into abortions.
- How to respond to unexpected pregnancies with compassion and support.
- What we need to say about sex and how we can support young people dealing with sexual issues.
- How euthanasia and assisted suicide further erode the value of human Life.
- The challenges presented by biotechnology.
- Ways that we can compassionately affirm Life in our churches and in our culture.

1. Participants will understand the biblical basis for affirming Life from conception to natural death.
2. Participants will be able to identify how our society often teaches a message, contradictory to the value of Life.
3. Participants will identify how the sanctity of Life is threatened daily, in big and small ways, in our culture.
4. Participants will be able to define abortion and describe how it affects the unborn child, the women involved, and others.
5. Participants will be able to identify helpful approaches to dealing with an unexpected pregnancy, including how adoption works today.
6. Participants will be able to share the biblical perspective on sex.
7. Participants will be able to define euthanasia and assisted suicide as practices that devalue certain human lives.
8. Participants will be able to identify some challenges posed by embryonic stem cell research, human cloning, and reproductive technology.
9. Participants will be able to give examples of ways that Christians, historically and currently, work to affirm the sanctity of life.
